

Lions and Tiggers and Bears - Oh My! And Batman, Spiderman, Fairy Princesses and one really great Bumble Bee

By Polly Charbonneau, DDC Command Affairs

More than 60 children from the Defense Distribution Depot Susquehanna, Pennsylvania's (DDSP) Child Development Center (CDC) participated in the annual Fall Harvest Parade on October 31, 2002. The children were outfitted as everything from Cookie Monsters to Firefighters, but parents and teachers weren't to be outdone. Joining in the fun they dressed as Bunnies, Cheerleaders, and Clowns.

The parade's first stop was the DDSP Fire Station where firefighters handed out goodie bags. From there the group wound their way through the base, getting treats at every stop. The parade was led by the DDSP Police Department.

"I think we look forward to this more than the kids do," said one of the goodie givers. Staff from all over the base met the children along the route to give out candy.

I AM BATMAN.

↑ The parade began at the fire station where the children got their goodie bags.